CALL for PAPERS

Special Focused Journal Section:

“Texas Takes Action to Address Societal Violence”

Background: In 2017 the Texas Public Health Association’s Governing Council voted to establish an ad hoc committee on societal violence. Members of the committee were re-appointed this year, 2018. As this TPHA committee continues its work, the Editorial Board of the Texas Public Health Journal wants to assist through chronicling your ongoing community efforts. Our goal is to inform public health professionals throughout TX and beyond as a step toward a healthier public through prevention of violence. The deadline has been extended to offer another opportunity for your group to let other Texas Public Health Practitioners know what your community is doing.

How to Participate: Please submit a 1-2 page short paper that summarizes a program(s) in your community focused on safer schools, safer homes, safer neighborhoods, etc. Please include any outcomes you have observed. Help us highlight projects or programs designed to curb violence and support safer, thereby healthier, communities. Include your name and agency and obtain approval from any businesses or agencies mentioned. Please submit to TPHAJournal@gmail.com Attention: Prevention of Societal Violence Article. Submissions will be internally peer reviewed by our journal team.

DEADLINE for SUBMISSION is August 15, 2018
