Names and addresses of investigators (indicate principal investigator, with all contact details)

Name and email address of the person who will receive referrals from RaDAR, or the webpage to which potential participants should be directed:

Proposed starting date:

Proposed duration:

Estimated case ascertainment of study:

Key questions to be answered, reasons for their importance, and whether a similar study is underway elsewhere:
Study methods. Please give details of:
- how you intend to gather case information (patient-led responses through provision of an email or website to which they interact; or neurologist-led responses via a questionnaire)
- an indication of the personal time likely to be involved through the respondent’s engagement (include a copy of any proposed case report forms)
- any proposal (or not) to involve responding neurologists in publications (e.g. personal acknowledgement or co-authorship)

A research ethics committee (REC) must have reviewed all aspects of proposal to link a patient with the study, especially if direct contact is proposed, or if the intention is for the neurologist to provide clinical information on their behalf. Please list the specific ethical permissions outlined to the REC for their approval in relation to patient contact and personal data, state which REC and when approval was given?

How is this study funded?

As detailed in the guidelines for submission, an initial fee of £300 is requested by the Research Committee as a contribution towards RaDAR administration costs. A further £200 is payable to cover years 2 & 3. Should you be unable to meet this requirement, please state reasons why in your covering letter. On signing this application the investigator agrees to the conditions set out in the application guidelines, specifically noting that:

1. A maximum of 8 studies can be listed at any time, and a waiting list based on date of application will operate over this number.
2. If no referrals have been received after 1 year of listing, then the study will be removed.
3. Studies will be listed for a maximum of 3 years.
