Patient Experience Journal Announces Inaugural PXJ Award Recipients

Nashville, TN (March 2, 2020) – In association with The Beryl Institute, Patient Experience Journal announces the inaugural 2019 Patient Experience Journal (PXJ) award recipients. The annual awards celebrate important contributions to the literature and articles of impact in research and practice. They also introduce groundbreaking authors who are working to expand evidence and insights on patient experience and the human experience in healthcare.

The winners are selected from the articles published in PXJ and chosen by the Editorial Board. Award recipients will be celebrated during a ceremony Tuesday, April 21, 2020 at The Beryl Institute Patient Experience Conference in Orlando, Florida.

The winning articles are:

“We are excited to introduce the PXJ Awards and announce this year’s recipients. The articles being recognized represent the rigor, thoughtfulness and vision seen in all the pieces published in the journal,” said Jason Wolf, Founding Editor of PXJ and President & CEO of The Beryl Institute. “PXJ remains committed to elevating the work of our authors and honoring the interest of our readers by bringing together a broad and comprehensive selection of cutting-edge articles from around the world. We congratulate our inaugural awardees and invite all to consider PXJ as the place to reach the broadest audience and have the greatest impact with your work in elevating the evidence on patient experience.”

PXJ publishes three times annually in April, November and a special topic issue in July. Submissions are accepted on an ongoing basis. All submissions should adhere to the requested submission types and author guidelines.

PXJ is also accepting submissions for the 2020 Special Issue on Patient & Family Experience in Behavioral Health. The deadline for submissions for that issue is April 1, 2020. Learn more: https://pxjournal.org/journal/vol6/iss2/16
