

Jennifer Broome
Travel Expert + Weather Expert = Traveling Weather Chick

As a television personality and travel writer, blogger, photographer, and videographer, Jennifer shares her travel and outdoors experiences through blogs, articles, photographs and videos. Based in Denver, Colorado, this adventurer and outdoors enthusiast is also a freelance broadcast meteorologist, host/reporter, and producer with over two decades of on camera experience.

She's Lara Croft meets Lucille Ball. When it comes to food, libations, and restaurants, she's Paula Dean meets Anthony Bourdain...if only she could cook like either one! She's definitely more of an eater than chef, but always willing to step into the kitchen. She's no makeup outdoorsy girl meets the perfectly coiffed television personality. She's a fan of roughing it, but also loves basking in 5-star luxury.

As a traveler, Jennifer has road tripped extensively across the United States including covering over 7500 miles across the American West in fall of 2007 to hike in multiple national parks. She's explored 46 states (Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and Alaska are left!). She has also traveled extensively in Mexico and Central America, Europe, and Caribbean.

The curious adventurer describes Jennifer. She has skydived with the Army Golden Knights and to launch a television show, flown with the Air Force Thunderbirds pulling 9Gs twice, and summited multiple 14,000-foot peaks including 4 in one day.

Her adventure bio includes: mushing a dog sled; cracking a Coors on the Coors Peak (14,017' Wilson Peak in Colorado); solo hiking in Wind River Range in Wyoming, exploring numerous national parks including hiking in 4 national parks and 4 national monuments in a week; surfing, snorkeling, and hiking on cross country adventure trips in Costa Rica and Nicaragua; and exploring countless destinations from Valle de Guadalupe on the Baja Peninsula in Mexico to Salzburg, Austria usually in 72 hours or less.

Whether it's hiking a mountain trail or experiencing a 5-star resort, she has the innate ability to take you along for the ride and make you feel like you are on the adventure with her. Plus, Jennifer shares the experiences with her thousands of followers across multiple social media platforms.

Jennifer's live television experience is extensive. She helped successfully launch the daily lifestyles show "Houston Life" for KPRC in Houston, Texas, as show's first host, and as webmaster and social media manager for first year of show.

As a television meteorologist, Jennifer has covered extreme weather like flooding (including 100-, 500-, and 1000-year floods), blizzards, wildfires, and hurricanes including Hurricane Katrina. She has worked in television news in Denver, San Antonio, Knoxville, and Myrtle Beach. She created and hosted “Explore Colorado” series and 30-minute specials on KDVR and KWGN in Denver, Colorado, featuring over 300 adventure stories in the state. As an environmental journalist, Jennifer has covered topics such as drought, Earthships, why public lands are important, national parks experiences, sustainable stays, and eco-tourism.

When she’s not traveling the world or road tripping across the United States, Jennifer lives in Denver as a freelance television meteorologist, host, reporter, and on-camera presenter. She also freelances as a travel writer and photographer.

Follow her travel blog on sweptawaytoday.com and follow along on her many adventures on social media: @jenniferbroometv on Instagram, jenniferbroometv on Facebook, and @jenniferbroome on Twitter.

