

Greg Abrams has nearly 20 years of experience in the homebuilding industry. He is currently a Vice President for the Arizona Division of PulteGroup overseeing its land acquisition and development operations in both Phoenix and Tucson. PulteGroup offers homes that meet the needs of First Time, Move-Up, Second Move-Up, Luxury and Active Adult Buyers in it's communities nationwide. Greg has been responsible for the acquisition, planning and development of thousands of lots as well as the start-up and operation of several large-scale master planned communities. He was appointed by the to the City of Phoenix Development Advisory Board in 2014 by the Mayor, where he has been advising City Management on key policy matters related to the homebuilding and development industry. He was also selected to be an Honorary Commander for the 63 Fighter Squadron at Luke Airforce Base in 2019. He graduated with two Bachelor of Science Degrees in Civil and Architectural Engineering from Drexel University in Philadelphia.