FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Valley Partnership's Look Ahead to 2018 – Examining the Prism of Factors that Impact Commercial Development

Phoenix – January 16, 2017 – Leading indicators within the key industries in the commercial real estate market offer insights into what the future holds for 2018 after the recently approved Tax Reform. Valley Partnership's expert panel will look through the banking and finance lens with Paul Engler, Senior Vice President of Alliance Bank, and the leasing lens with Mark Detmer of JLL. The panel also includes renowned architect Rick Butler of Butler Design group. Architects tend to work at the earliest phases of development and their workload can signal the health and growth in the market. Chris Anderson, Managing Director of Hines Development, will share insights into what's ahead in commercial and residential development in the metro Phoenix market.

What/When: Valley Partnership's Friday Morning Breakfast on Friday, January 26, 2018 at 7:30am (Program begins at 8am)

Where: Phoenix Country Club, 2901 N. 7th St, Phoenix

Registration: Members: $50 / Non-Members $75 / Onsite add $10

Panel: Mark Detmer, Managing Director of JLL; Rick Butler, RA, Principal of Butler Design Group, Chris Anderson, Managing Director of Hines Development; and Paul Engler, Senior Vice President, Alliance Bank.

Special Guest: Jaime Molera, Principal of Molera Alvarez, will offer a preview of what Valley Partnership and its members can expect in this year's legislative session.

Special Guest Speaker – Arizona Congresswoman & US Senate Candidate Martha McSally will join Valley Partnership members to offer her insights into the current political scene, the upcoming elections, the recent government shut-down and so much more.
