

Valley Partnership's Names Honorary Board Members

Phoenix – April 9, 2018 – Valley Partnership, the Valley's leading voice for responsible development, recently named four real estate industry leaders as inaugural Honorary Board Members. John DiVall, senior vice president and market officer for Liberty Property Trust; Karrin Taylor Robson, founder of Arizona Strategies; Grady Gammage, Jr, founder of Gammage and Burnham; and John Graham, CEO of Sunbelt Holdings, were named as Valley Partnership Honorary Board Members.

"The issues that Valley Partnership addresses are increasing complex - engaging with legislative leaders at the local, state, and federal levels. From water to entitlements, from investments to economic development, these leaders have worked across these segments and are proven thought leaders and do-ers. They have served on the governing board of directors for Valley Partnership and now we can look their strategic advice on issues of import to our industry and leverage their experience and expertise when needed," said Cheryl Lombard, President/CEO of Valley Partnership.

"We certainly appreciate their willingness to serve in this ad-hoc capacity and we look forward to working together to build a stronger, healthier base economy for the long term."

Honorary Board Members:

John DiVall, Liberty Property Trust - John is an accomplished executive and leader in commercial real estate with a 30-year track record of high performance development transactions throughout the United States.

Karrin Taylor Robson, Arizona Strategies - Karrin is the Founder and President of Arizona Strategies, Arizona's premier land use strategy firm leading the entitlements for large scale real estate and redevelopment projects around the state.

Grady Gammage Jr., Gammage & Burnham - Grady is one of the founders of Gammage and Burnham and has had a varied and diverse 40-year career in Arizona, focused primarily on real estate, development and public policy.

John W. Graham, Sunbelt Holdings -- John serves as president and CEO of Sunbelt Holdings and has become a dominant force, in both community affairs and real estate activities.
