Closing the Gap – Executive Level Negotiation and Conflict Resolution

How many times have you negotiated for yourself and the outcome wasn't exactly what you expected. Did you give up more than you received in return? Have you ever tried to resolve a conflict with a colleague or members of your team and you walked out of the room without a solution? When it comes to negotiating and conflict resolution being prepared and having strategies in place beforehand are a must. Join Dr. Martina Moore, President and CEO of Moore Counseling & Mediation Services, Inc. as she shares the following techniques:

- How to always look for win-win strategies
- How to keep your integrity when undergoing negotiations and conflict resolutions
- How to avoid under negotiating your value
- Conflict can be a strategy towards a positive change
