WIB Boston Presents a Women's History Month "Shark Tank" Event

March is Women's History Month, and what better way to honor women's history than to celebrate powerful women in the life sciences. On March 24, 2015, we will feature two groups of influential women in the biotech space for the WIB shark tank event. As the name suggests, this event will be in the style of shark tank with each fundraising female executive giving a pitch to the "sharks." The sharks will provide feedback on the pitch and commentary on the company/product. This event will help executives understand how to pitch to investors more effectively. It also will be a great way to get exposure to some new technologies and ideas in the life sciences space. So whether you are thinking about starting your own company, are fundraising, or just want to celebrate powerful women this is one event that you can't afford to miss.

Finding—and Getting—Your Worth: Negotiating Compensation

On February 26, 2015, over 50 women convened at Nektar Therapeutics in San Francisco for an evening discussion on understanding and getting your worth when negotiating compensation. The evening began with a meet-and-greet networking session with light refreshments, and then transitioned into a panel discussion. The expert panel was chaired by Mary Haak-Frendscho and included panelists Simone Fishburn, Mimi Hancock, and Dorian Hirth. The discussion ranged over a wide variety of topics, including what to expect in a compensation package, how to gauge and set salary expectations, and how to approach compensation negotiations to meet one's priorities. The event was very well received, as illustrated by this comment from WIB member Diane Heditsian (CEO deClarity): "This was definitely an expert, well-prepared panel. I always walk away from WIB events with so much actionable information. That's why I became a member." Members, be sure to check out the recording of this event in the WIB video library!
