Women In Bio is an organization dedicated to promoting diversity and inclusion in the life sciences, from the classroom to the boardroom. Year-round, we appreciate the contributions of African Americans, not only in the life sciences but across all fields. We are happy to celebrate Black History Month by recognizing African American women who inspire us to strive for success through hardships and adversity on our social media accounts. Be sure to follow us on Instagram, Facebook, LinkedIn, or Twitter.

WIB-National Webinar: EWIB Presents Strategic Networking in the C-Suite

Join us as Grace E. Colón, Ph.D., INCARDA Therapeutics President & Chief Executive Officer, speaks on Strategic Networking in the C-Suite. Dr. Colón brings over 25 years of experience in biopharma, genomics, healthcare, and industrial biotechnology. In addition to her role at InCarda, she is Executive Chairman (formerly CEO) of ProterixBio and serves on the boards of CareDx (NASDAQ:CDNA) and Cocoon Biotech, and on the Advisory Board of the Miller Center for Social Entrepreneurship at Santa Clara University. Formerly, she was a partner at New Science Ventures, a New York-based venture capital firm with over $700M under management, and served on the boards of Paradigm Diagnostics and PerceptiMed. Previously, she co-founded Pyranose Biotherapeutics, a biologics discovery platform company. She was also founding President of the Industrial Products Division at Intrexon Corporation, where she established a new division focused on leveraging synthetic biology for bioindustrial applications such as biofuels and renewable chemicals. WIB National Seeks Sponsorship Vice-Chair, YWIB Volunteers and Program Chair, and Communications Committee Volunteers

Women In Bio (WIB) is seeking dynamic women volunteers to serve as Sponsorship Vice-Chair of the National Committee, YWIB Volunteers and Program Chair, and on the National Communications Committee. WIB supports diversity and inclusion for women employed in the field of life sciences from the classroom to the boardroom. We are with our members every step of the way with our Young Women In Bio, Executive Women In Bio, and Boardroom Ready Programs, as well as our growing Mentorship opportunities.

- The Sponsorship Vice-Chair must be able to build relationships between chapters to create an open dialogue on fundraising best practices for engaging and retaining sponsors. To apply, please submit your resume/CV and a one-page document containing a description of your history with WIB, a description of your vision for sponsorship recruitment, and why you are interested in the role. Submissions should be e-mailed to info@womeninbio.org no later than February 14, 2020.

- For those interested in volunteering on the Communications Committee, the WIB communications team partners with the Committee Chair and Vice-Chair, along with the WIB-National Communication and Marketing Administrator, and the WIB-National Marketing Associate. Currently, we are in need of assistance with posting on our social media platforms and would like to have someone that can actively comment and interact with others via those platforms. This non-compensated volunteer should have a proven track record of crafting and executing social media posts. Experience with Canva and Hootsuite is helpful. They should be passionate about advancing careers of women and have a robust network within life sciences. To apply, please email your letter of interest and resume to info@womeninbio.org by February 14, 2020.

- The YWIB Program Chair position will involve the formalizing of YWIB programming and helping the chapters with implementation. The candidate would help to create best practice guidelines for YWIB programs and work with potential sponsors in an effort to secure funding. The candidate must be enthusiastic about helping young girls engage in STEM. General YWIB volunteers are also needed and welcome. To apply, please email your letter of interest and resume to info@womeninbio.org by February 14, 2020.

WIB-Chicago: Top of the Mountain Leadership, January 30, 2020, Event Recap

Tiffany Prince gave an exceptional talk on leadership at the Women In Bio event on January 30, 2020. Attendees received her book "Top of the Mountain Leadership: The Future of Performance and Productivity in a Technology Changing World". In the science world where scientific achievements and promotions are not always accompanied by training in management skills, the relevance of the topic of leadership hit home for the audience. Going over the various general styles of leadership, people were able to identify the strengths and weaknesses of their own main leadership styles with tips on implementation to achieve maximum success for their professional goals and inspiring their teams. Consisting of both presentation and group participation, attendees were able to discuss their own real-life examples of factors limiting leadership outcomes, how various attributes associated with leadership have positive and negative effects on teams, and how being able to exercise a breadth of leadership styles maximizes the potential for team engagement. In addition, fabulous prizes were offered that included free personal coaching sessions with the speaker. This was an excellent session for people at various stages in professional development, for those already in charge of teams to lead even more effectively and those currently members of teams to lead their own teams in the future. It was a fun-filled evening focused on personal and professional growth on a topic that is always at the forefront of relevance.

WIB-Greater Boston: You’re FDA Approved, Now What? Transition From Development Stage to Commercial (February 27, 2020)

You’re FDA approved, now what? How biopharmas successfully plan for and make the transition from the development stage to commercial companies.

Emerging life science companies dream of their first regulatory approval, but the skills and capabilities required for success can change dramatically overnight once that goal is reached. Moreover, startup culture may clash with the requirements of running a commercial business. Join us for a lively discussion of what emerging companies must do before, during and after achieving the holy grail of approval to ensure long term success. More details here.

WIB-Greater Boston: Members Invited to Join Mentorship, Advisors, Peers, and Sponsorship (MAPS)

Women In Bio-Greater Boston is excited to offer the 2020 Mentorship, Advisors, Peers, and Sponsorship (MAPS) program!

This program aims to provide mentorship for women in a small group setting. The goal is to build strong connectivity among team members, foster opportunities for personal and professional growth by sharing knowledge and experiences and leveraging the diverse skills and perspectives among the group.

MAPS groups include three to four mentees with a minimum of two to three years of experience in the life science/biotech industry led by two more senior women serving as mentors. Groups will be formed by aligning participants’ interests, experience levels and location.

Once formed, groups will individually schedule monthly meetings to discuss career goals, share challenges and successes, and brainstorm ideas in a supportive, small group environment.

The program will run between April and December 2020.

Participants must commit to attending the April kickoff meeting and group meetings a minimum of six times during the program.

For more details, click here.

WIB-Greater Boston: Sixth Annual Lobster Pot

What better way to honor Women’s History Month than to celebrate powerful women in the life sciences? Come to WIB-Boston’s sixth annual famous Annual Lobster Pot. As the name suggests, this event will be in the “shark tank style,” with each fundraising executive pitching to investors and the audience. The investors will provide feedback on the pitch and comment on the ideas presented. The audience will also have the opportunity to rate each pitch. Join us on March 26, 2020, to learn how to pitch to investors more effectively, and to check out some exciting NewCos in the life sciences space. So whether you are starting your own company, raising money, or just want to celebrate powerful women, this is one event that you can’t afford to miss. Click here for more information.

WIB-Montreal: Leveraging your Graduate Degree, January 29, 2020, Event Recap

Our “Leveraging your Graduate Degree” event was a total success! With a full house and sold-out event, our speakers shared great tips on how to transition successfully after your grad studies. Our first speaker Mahzad discussed the missing opportunities in academia for supporting early-stage innovators in research labs. To bridge this gap, she suggested to include training on design thinking, experiential learning, and entrepreneurship at the graduate level. She also discussed the current programs that District 3 offers to help labs develop their projects towards commercialization. In the panel discussion, great tips were shared on how graduates can transition into academia or industry.

About Our Chapter

WIB-RTP (Research Triangle Park) benefits from and contributes to the rich life sciences industry of Raleigh, Durham, and Chapel Hill. These areas are home to the largest high-tech research and development centers in North America with major biotech and pharmaceutical companies, a rich venture capital community, and top research institutions and universities.

Our mission is to promote entrepreneurship, innovation, and education among women to impact regional economic growth and to stimulate empowerment. We believe that women have the unique potential for improving companies’ strategic positions and growth by offering intelligence, spirit, leadership, and vision to the biotech, pharmaceutical, and healthcare industries.

WIB-San Francisco Bay Area: Pioneering Women in Personalized Medicine, a Women's History Month Event

Join the San Francisco Bay Area chapter of Women In Bio on March 24, 2020, for a special evening event at Magnolia Brewing in the Dogpatch in San Francisco to celebrate Women’s History Month! This event will highlight pioneering women that are leading the way in the advancement of precision medicine.

We will kick off the evening’s festivities with a panel on the role of liquid biopsies in personalized medicine, featuring panelists Jenn Buechel (Former VP of Product and Program Management at GRAIL), Jessica Riley (VP of Business Development & Companion Diagnostics at PathAI), Raheleh Salari (Director of Bioinformatics at Natera), Blandine Merino (Founder at Bio2Market), and Kathryn Phillips (Professor of Health Services Research & Health Economics at UCSF), with moderator Tara Maddala (Independent Statistical Consultant at TMBiostats and NDA Partners).

The evening will be capped off by a delicious dinner at Magnolia Brewing and a fireside chat with our keynote speaker, Kim Popovits (Former CEO & President at Genomic Health), and moderator Chris Meda (CBO at IncellDx).

Come be inspired by these women leading the way in pioneering advancements in liquid biopsy and personalized medicine in 2020 and beyond! Click here for more information.

WIB-San Francisco Bay Area: Volunteer Leadership Recognition

Our San Francisco team sends out their sincere thanks to Christin Chong for all the work she has done as a part of their programming committee. Christine is leaving her leadership roles. We wish her well in all her future endeavors.

Barbara Celona and Arisa Paul have been promoted from Vice-Chairs of Membership to Co-Chairs of Membership in our San Francisco chapter. Congratulations to them both!
WIB-Seattle: Join Young Women In Bio at the Fred Hutch for a Look Inside Our Blood!

Have you ever wondered about the components of our blood, and how those components might be affected by cancer? For those who missed this event last year, YWIB-Seattle is collaborating again with the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center to offer a hands-on laboratory experience to interested 8th through 12th-grade students! Dr. Beverly Torok-Storb (FHCRC) will provide the necessary biological background, and a guided lab will follow in which students separate blood components and observe blood smears under a microscope. No prior lab experience required. Click here for more information.
