

Announcing Our 2019 President-Elect, Jessica Bosc

The Women In Bio Board of Directors is thrilled to announce the selection of Jessica Bosc as our new President-Elect. She joins WIB-Nationals from the Boston Chapter.

“I am honored to join this outstanding group of women as 2019 President-elect. As Life Science opportunities expand, Women In Bio provides a network of supportive, successful women and allies dedicated to helping women realize their career goals. During my time in WIB leadership, I will work diligently to further this mission. I look forward to helping the organization continue this work by providing quality programs that engages members at all levels--from Young Women In Bio, to Boardroom Ready, and beyond.”

Jessica is the Northeast Business Development Director for Cytovance Biologics, Inc. She leads business development activities for Mammalian, Microbial and Flex services. Jessica received her Masters of Science in Biology from Tufts University and has spent nearly 20 years of her career in the life sciences, starting as a high school science teacher.

We are excited that Jessica has accepted the role of WIB President-Elect. Her active participation as a volunteer committee leader, her enthusiasm, and positive outlook will help WIB fulfill its mission to empower women in the life sciences. Jessica can be reached at jbosc@womeninbio.org

Jessica’s official first day is January 1, 2019.

Please join us in welcoming Jessica Bosc as the WIB President-Elect!

Kind regards,

Cassidy Cantin
